The DIMMER VIEW

Two incidents in Lemon Grove last week contributed to a wacky crime scene.

Come to think of it, the two incidents should be considered non-crimes — but for different reasons.

Thursday night. Car Cruise night on Broadway. The police arrest law-breakers during the Cruise whether they are part of the Cruise or not.

While drivers stand about in the parking area along both sides of Broadway, they frequently drink a lot of beer they bring along to while away the three-hour visitation.

Because shoppers can't find parking space they quit coming to town on Thursday evenings. Most shops that had stayed open on Thursday now close because the only people who come in are the beer drinkers to use restroom facilities.

The closings caused Cruisers to take to the alleys. Cops arrested a number of them under a charge of indecent exposure. Although the courts wouldn't accept the charges, it did break up the habit of using the alleys for relief purposes.

Then some cruisers began using beer cans and bottles for relief purposes. They sat in their car and put it back from whence it came — in a manner of speaking. The containers were then positioned on the sidewalks of Broadway and left there since the drivers didn't want their nauseous stuff in their vehicles.

El Cajon courts wouldn't accept indecent exposure so cops charged people they caught putting the refilled containers on sidewalks with littering. The California Penal Code says littering is the act of depositing any waste matter, nauseous or offensive material, other than in places or containers specifically established for that purpose.

Nauseous and offensive, it is. Intended for sidewalks, it isn't. Yet, the District Attorney's El Cajon office rejected these offensive acts as violation of the litter law. And the police are helpless.

Now safe from prosecution of a charge of exposure or littering, some Cruisers have taken to relieving themselves on the sidewalks.

One merchant told us of the stench he had encountered from his sidewalk Friday morning and that complaint led us to the police to ask about this crude and revolting practice.

"It is no longer a prosecutable offense for a person to use Lemon Grove sidewalks for toilets," a sheriff's deputy told us when we asked why these miscreants are permitted to do what they are doing.

Apparently, it is no longer indecent to expose oneself in a public place while doing it, either! The courts are telling you not to be offended by such acts!

Another incident which has no bearing on the other, happened about noon Friday. We got a tip that a young, attractive female had hopped out of her male escort's car, and undressed on the well-kept lawn in front of the Crocker National Bank at Broadway and Grove streets.

She then laid, belly down, on the lawn and sun bathed for a half-hour or so in the nude, it was reported.

We got there after Sheriff's Deputy Harold Ross was given the complaint. Complaint? Before either of us got there her driver returned. She hopped back in the car and they drove away. Shucks!

A witness, less excitable than the complainant witness, claimed to have seen the whole incident. She said the girl slipped on a bathing bra under her shirt before she took her clothes off. The sunbather was also wearing a mini-bikini bottom, she said.

There is no clue to the identity of the sunbathing beauty.

Only one thing is certain. If there had been a Car Cruiser on that grassy plot the night before she couldn't have used it.

Political Note

80 cotton growers, from California through Texas, are donating one bale of cotton each to Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign.

Democrats and Republicans alike, who are raising cotton, we are told, are joining in the support of "a man who has worked the soil with his hands."

In Georgia, a spinning mill has already purchased the shipment. The proceeds go to Carter's election fund.

The mill will have hit the mother lode if Carter wins the presidency. Think of it! Everything from ladies' underwear to family bathmats with a presidential seal woven in, all made from Jimmy Carter Cotton for President.

The Federal Election Commission has viewed the contribution objectively. "Because the cotton is considered a campaign donation in kind," it ruled, "the candidate is eligible for matching funds."

Carter is seeking a ruling on whether "in kind" means the Election Commission is going to give him money or 80 more bales of cotton.

Solicitor Called 'Abusive' Faces Non-License Charge

Several residents in the Mercury-Lemonwood area of Lemon Grove complained on April 28 to sheriff's deputies that a door-to-door solicitor, selling juvenile educational books, had been rude, abusive and verbally insulting. One complainant reported that he had shown an FBI identification card.

The solicitor was described as a white male, about 20 with a distinct English brogue.

Sheriff's deputies picked up Paul Dennis Corwin, of 2161 Garnet ave., San Diego, a little while later. He produced an ID card from an educational art firm of Atlanta Ga. and a membership card from a Washington State Yacht Club.

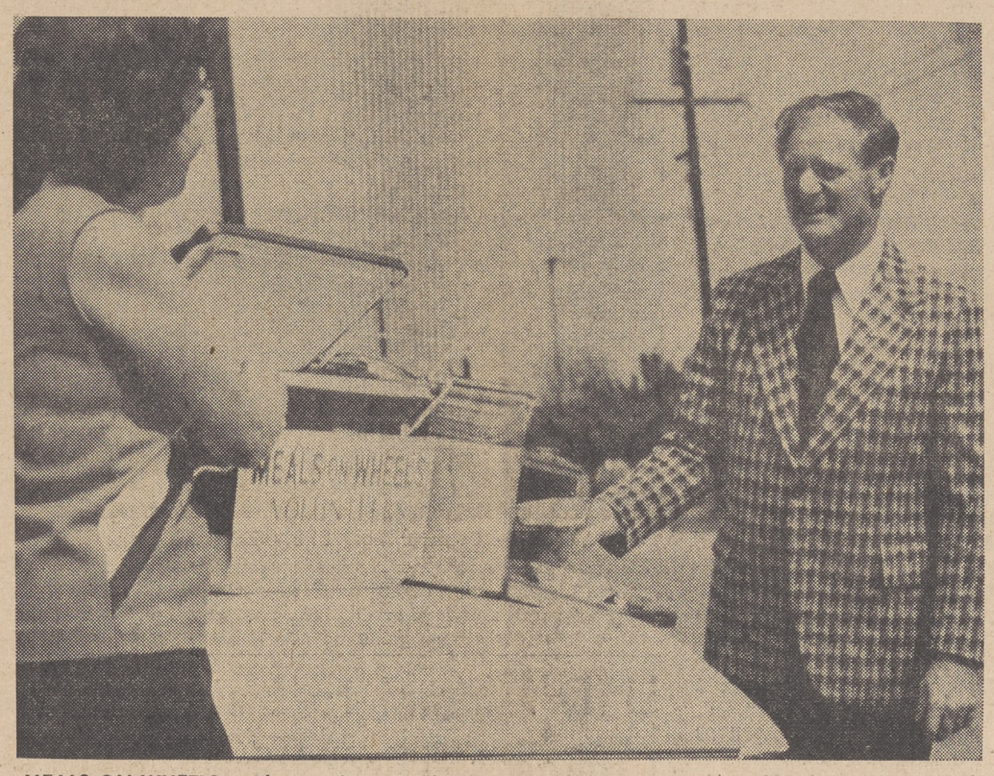
He claimed his valid Washington State drivers' license had been surrendered in lieu of cash to a TV rental ship in San Diego. He said the shop was in North Park but he didn't know the name or address nor did he possess an itinerant vendors' county license.

He was charged because of the latter oversight.

Boat Motor Stolen

A Mercury 800 outboard motor, valued at $2,000, was stolen from the front of the home of Jimmy Edwin Dockster, at 2443 Helix st., Spring Valley on April 18, he told sheriff's deputies.

The motor was taken while he was away from home, he said.



MEALS ON WHEELS — Theo and Roy Williams prepare to serve a hot meal from their trunk top insulated containers during a "Meals on Wheels" call. Williams is the chairman pro tem of a Lemon Grove-Spring Valley advisory council helping to implement an emergency meal program here for those who, through illness or surgery, cannot cook or shop. Meal charge is $3 a day and arrangements are made for those unable to pay. The council is seeking assistance from local charitable organizations to support the project.

Treatment Plant Bypass Causes Algae Problems for Helix Users

Helix Water District General Manager Clarence Watters has made an appeal to customers to conserve water use during the next few weeks to prevent certain household problems.

Plumbing problems in household appliances may be the result of algae in the distribution system and not a serious malfunction, the Helix Water District advises its customers.

Plant Shut Down

The difficulty arises because the District is bypassing its R. M. Levy Treatment Plant and moving water directly from Lake Jennings and the San Diego Aqueduct into the distribution system, according to Watters.

Work on connecting the new settling basins to the mixing basins and filter beds at the plant require a complete shutdown. The plant is expected to be back in operation within three weeks, said Watters.

"At the present time, we are delivering about 27 to 28 millions gallons of water each day. We can take only about 25 million gallons out of Jennings, and the rest must come directly out of the aqueduct," he pointed out.

"If area residents could reduce water use during this period to a total of 25 million gallons per day, the problem would be largely corrected," Watters said.

"Water in the aqueduct is carrying the algae, so the problem will persist until total usage drops below 25 million gallons a day or until we can get the plant back in operation," Watters said.

Side Effect

"There might be a side benefit," he added. "Once people find out how little water they actually need, they might continue to conserve water and reduce the size of their water bills."

The settling basins are being added to the Levy Plant in anticipation of arrival of supplies from the State Water Project in mid-1977. Under present quality standards, that water must receive "full" treatment before delivery to domestic consumers.

Because the addition of the settling basins also increases the plant capacity, Helix will have a small surplus for the next few years. This surplus has been made available to the Otay and Rio San Diego municipal water districts through a contract with the San Diego County Water Authority.

'Gov.' Mills Installs Officers At L.G. Chamber Annual Ceremony

It was a good, old fashioned, patriotic binge and approximately 100 members and guests of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce thoroughly enjoyed it.

Crocker Bank's Bob-Guest was installed as president for the second year in a row. The installation banquet was held Saturday night at St. John of the Cross auditorium.

California "Governor" James R. Mills was installing officer. He was governor because Jerry Brown was in the east running a political campaign. And Mervyn Dymally was also out of state. It was the first time LG CoC officers were ever installed by such a high-ranking officer.

Gubernatorial Kiss

Not only did Gov. Mills install members with aplomb, but he managed to kiss the newly named Miss Lemon Grove — Judy Joanne Koenig —who had won her title just a week earlier She admitted she had never before been kissed by a governor.

Ed Fike, assistant to the editor of the San Diego Union provided the program. He related little known historical events in which it was shown that the United States averted national disaster "by the skin of our teeth" on several occasions.

Fike is a former member of the U.S. Civil War Centennial Commission, appointed by President J. F. Kennedy. He is also a former administrative assistant in the Office, Secretary of Defense and also a member of the U.S. Delegation to the North Atlantic Council, Paris.

Command Performance

Fike had given the talk at the L.G. Rotary weeks earlier and a chamber member who heard it urged him to be speaker of the evening at Saturday's Chamber affair. It was the first time a chamber speaker had to take a bow.

The response for Fike's presentation was so enthusiastic that Mills almost got started on a historical speech. He could have done it well with his M.A. and B.A. degrees in history from S.D. State College.

A vocal quintet, "The Spirit of '76", part of the ministry of Del Cerro Baptist Church, provided stirring, patriotic music with a pictorial backdrop.

The total evening was big on patriotism.

Installed, in addition to Guest, were Dr. Griff Clark, Carl Lacki and Wally Knutson as veep, treasurer and secretary.

Installed as directors were Robert Russell, James Dorman, Bob Browne, Louise Dail, Craig Lake, Olin Thompson, George Zumwalt, Leonard Klein, Dave Harvey, Rose Harris, Dr. Roger Ballard, John Stenbeck, Howard Coberly and the Rev. Michael Maxson.

LAFCO Dates LG Hearing; Approves SV Fire Annex

The Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) convened for its monthly meeting Monday and took action on two matters affecting the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley area.

Incorporation

The commission agreed to consider the County Board of Supervisors' proposal to expand the north boundary of Lemon Grove to include most of Vista La Mesa, a square mile island sandwiched between La Mesa, San Diego and the proposed city. A public hearing was set for 9 a.m., June 7.

Mike Gotch of LAFCO declined to comment on whether he anticipated any hitch in his agency's decision on the matter, but he did say that mail correspondence to LAFCO was running overwhelmingly against Lemon Grove City extending into VLM. He reported receiving 60 letters within the last two weeks from Vista La Mesa residents, all of whom opposed being included in Lemon Grove's incorporation plans.

Annexation

The other matter affecting the area was approval of the annexation of a 670-acre "island" into the Spring Valley Fire Protection District. The land, located north and west of Jamacha blvd., east of Grand ave. and south of Campo rd. was the last of the pockets of land in Spring Valley to be annexed into the District. Residents there were due to lose fire protection July 1 when a final contract with the California Division of Forestry expires.

At CDF's request, the County is phasing out contracts for structural fire protection in unincorporated areas.

Spring Valley Fire District is expected to hold a final public hearing on the annexation in June.

Urges Nursing Home Visit to Somebody's Mom

Mother's Day this Sunday, appropriately enough, marks the beginning of National Nursing Home Week in California.

In observance of the event, most member facilities of the California Association of Health Facilities will conduct Open House during the eight days beginning Mother's Day and ending the following Sunday.

"We urge all citizens to do a little something extra this year for somebody's mother by visiting a patient in a nursing home sometime during the week," said John Williams, prident of CAHF.

"There are some 600,000 patients in nursing homes throughout the nation. More than 100,000 of them are in California and most of them are women.

"Unfortunately, many of them have no family, no friends and no visitors. National Nursing Home Week may be the only time all year that some of these elderly ill, who pretty much have been forgotten by society, will have the opportunity of rediscovering that somebody cares."

The theme of the week, Williams said, is "We Care — You Care," chosen "to demonstarte the dedication and concern of the modern nursing home professional.

Ham Recovered In Traffic Stop

A sheriff's deputy who stopped to cover for a CHP officer who was making a traffic stop, noted a large ham partially stuffed under the seat of the suspect's car.

Further inspection revealed 8 packages of Polaroid film, a syringe, and a red Seconal capsule.

Since the activity took place on the parking lot of Mayfair Market on Broadway in Lemon Grove, and the suspect could not produce a sales slip for the ham and film, the items were taken into the market for identification. The suspect was wearing baggy pants and a long coat so it was suspected that he stuffed the ham into his pants.

Examination showed that the suspect had fresh needle marks on his arm and blood spots on his shirt sleeve.

The suspect, Gary John Williams, 21, of San Diego, was charged with possessing a restricted dangerous drug and stolen property valued at 57.50.

PTA Seeks Padre-Cinci Sellout

Padre fans can support PTA projects while they enjoy a favorite sport if they buy tickets at a local PTA or the District PTA office 296-2155 for the Padre vs. the Cincinnati Reds game at the San Diego Stadium Friday, May 21, 7:30 p.m. They will also save twenty-five cents a ticket over the box-office price, so if they fill up a car with family and friends, they will save enough to pay the parking.

Two Loge Level sections, 25 & 26, at $2.75 and two Plaza Level at $3.25 have been reserved for the PTA for what is expected to be a sell-out game, the first visit of the Reds here.

In addition to phone orders, mail orders will be accepted. Mail a check or money order made payable to Ninth District PTA Inc. and a stamped self-addressed envelope to: Mrs. Robert Noll, 5151 Cholla Parkway, San Diego, Ca. 92105.

Deadline for mail orders is Monday, May 10.

Noll, Ninth District Ways and Means Chairman is chairman of the benefit project.

New Nursing Home Law Protects Patients

This is the first of a five-part series of articles explaining how families, friends and the community can help protect the interests and welfare of nursing home patients. The material is based on Information Pamphlet No. 7, "Understanding the New California Nursing Home Act," published by the office of State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.

Following a study of the nursing home situation by the State Attorney General's Advisory Committee on Problems of Aging and the Joint Legislative Committee on Aging there was agreement that better controls and sanctions were needed for nursing homes.

As a result, the State Attorney General's Office drafted and supported a bill, introduced by Assemblyman Leo McCarthy, to upgrade the enforcement capabilities of the State in order to improve the care and services provided in nursing home facilities.

The proposal was passed into law in 1974 and in the following year regulations were adopted by the California Department of Health implementing the new law.

Decent Standards

"This new law (Long-term Care, Health, Safety and Security Act of 1973) was an important step in providing the legal basis for enforcement of decent standards in our nursing home facilities," according to State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.

He also noted that "it is equally important that the new law and regulations be vigorously enforced in a timely manner by those State and local agencies charged with responsibilities under it. The California Department of Health and the State Attorney General's Office intend to do that.

"Our lawyers have been instructed to give top priority to monitoring its enforcement."

Younger also observes that in order for State agencies to do their work effectively, "we need the cooperation and assistance of the public. Individual citizens must help by using the new law to bring complaints based on their personal knowledge and observation to the attention of the appropriate agencies."

The new law empowers the State to impose civil penalties upon those facilities not in compliance with minimum standards, authorizes surprise inspections to detect violations and establishes numerous other requirements designed to upgrade the quality of care in California's nursing homes.

Calls for Inspection

The law provides that any person may request that the California Department of Health inspect a nursing home.

When a written complaint is received, the department must assign an investigator to look into the complaint. Unless the department determines that the complaint is without any reason, it must make an unannounced onsite inspection of the nursing home within ten working days after the complaint.

The person making the complaint may, upon request, accompany the investigator on his tour of the facility, unless the inspector determines it would invade the privacy of a patient. (Sections 1419, 1420, Health and Safety Code).

The complaint must be in writing and must give the details of the incident or the condition observed. The nursing home is entitled to know the nature of the complaint against it at the time the inspection takes place but will not be given the name of the complainant or the patient without their consent, unless a court action based on the complaint results. (Health and Safety Code Section 1419 and section 72713(b) of the Skilled Nursing Facilities Regulations.)

No Retaliation

The nursing home may not retaliate against any patient or employee, or any other person who makes a complaint to the department. If the nursing home takes any action to expel a patient or any action which would be considered discriminatory toward a patient involved in a complaint within 120 days after the filing of a complaint, the home is subject to a civil penalty of up to $500, unless the home demonstrates the action it took was unrelated to the complaint. (Health and Safety Code section 1432(a) and section 72727 Skilled Nursing Facilities Regulations).

Next: What steps need to be taken when you complain.

Rent-A-Womb Still Long Way Off

It is unlikely that a controversial medical possibility, termed "rent-a-womb" by some critics, will come to pass soon, the California Medical Assn. reports.

The procedure would make it possible for a childless couple to use the womb of another woman to give birth to their own baby.

The "Brave New World-like" concept of reproduction, however, is a long way off, according to a report in the April issue of CMA's Western Journal of Medicine.

'In Vitro'

"Aside from the issue of safety, the technology simply is not sufficiently mature. We have no definite evidence that 'in vitro' fertilization in humans has yet been accomplished," they say.

"In vitro" fertilization is the combining of male sperm and female egg in a laboratory culture dish, followed by implantation into a womb — either the womb of the donor or in the womb of another woman who would carry the fetus until delivery and then return it to its "parents."

The procedure has been performed successfully in mice, producing live, normal offspring.

A leader of the opposition to this procedure, biologist-ethicist Leon Kass, calls "in vitro" unethical experimentation on the unborn.

The experimentation was intended, in part, to aid the estimated 2.5 million couples in America who cannot have children because the spouse has blocked fallopian tubes. Such women theoretically could bear children, but fertilization cannot take place.

The procedure has been rapped as exploitive of human beings, referring to those women who would actually undergo the pregnancy. Such women, the report suggested, might be given a fee to carry another couple's implanted offspring.

Love Being Pregnant

There are already women willing to volunteer their services. "They state they love being pregnant and would arrange to always be in this condition if it were not for the matter of having to keep the babies," says the report.

Major objections to the procedure are that a woman might become emotionally attached to the child she is carrying and not wish to give it up at birth, or, conversely, that the donor parents might not accept the child if it were born abnormal.

The report concludes that the use of the procedure in humans is premature, and the authors suggest further animal experimentation.

Marie Gibbs Kelley in Lemon Grove Concert

Southland Music Center, 3459 Imperial ave., Lemon Grove, will present popular organist and teacher, Marie Gibbs Kelley, in a special Spring Concert, Saturday at 8 p.m.

Kelley is well-known in San Diego as a outstanding teacher of popular music as well as a concert artist. Her background includes over twenty years as a church organist as well as playing for fashion shows, weddings, receptions and conventions.

Her re-engagement at Southland Music is two years overdue. Her concert here in March of 1974 was sold out days before the performance. A heavy teaching schedule coupled with rigid demands on perfection in performance have caused her long-awaited return.

Tickets are available by mail, by phone (463-0308) or at the Box Office the evening of the concert.

Tropical Jungle Opens at Wild Animal Park

Jungle animals took over a corner of the San Diego Wild Animal Park recently. The new jungle exhibit "Tropical America" opened last week at the San Pasqual park.

Construction of Tropical America fulfills two goals at the wildlife preserve: the addition of a South and Central American dimension to the Park which until now has been a home to animals mainly from Africa, Asia and Australia; and the establishment of an educational and environmental biome where visitors may actually walk through a true jungle rain forest.

The structure is built mostly of fir poles and metal fabric. Visitors explore the habitat by foot, entering Tropical America either through the glass-enclosed herpetarium or by a side entrance to the canopied garden.

Two free admissions to both the park and the monorail tour are offered to new subscribers and subscription renewals to this newspaper before May 21.

New Lecture Series Covers Medicine's Pioneering Research

Opening program of the series is "The Look You Like — Aesthetic Plastic Surgery." It features physician-surgeons Dan Smith and C. Jay Hoyt, La Mesa specialists in the field of plastic and reconstruction surgery, delivering an illustrated talk on new advances in altering physical appearances and mental outlook through face lifting and other cosmetic procedures.

Other programs in the series will include "Beyond Techniques in Love and Sex," May 13; "Antidotes to Fear, Anger, Violence," May 20; "The Transcendental Dimensions of Personal Growth," May 27 and "The Art of Yes and No," June 3. Admission is free to all programs in the series.

6 Top Quarterbacks Sign For Dewar's Net Classic

LAS VEGAS — Six of the top quarterbacks in pro football will be smashing serves instead of getting smashed in the sixth annual Dewar's Sports Celebrity Tennis Championship at the Hotel Riviera courts, according to tournament chairman Iz Becker.

The round-robin, doubles event will be held June 7-10.

Four of the six quarterbacks, Fran Tarkenton, Minnesota Vikings; Roger Staubach, Dallas Cowboys; Jim Hart, St. Louis Cardinals, and Ken Anderson, Cincinnati Bengals, led their teams into divisional playoffs last season.

The other signal callers are Dan Pastorini, Houston Oilers, and Craig Morton, New York Giants.

"Because of the tremendous interest generated by the Dewar's Tennis Championship, many outstanding sports celebrities have asked us to participate," said Becker. "Accordingly, we are increasing our field from 20 to 32 players this year and are stretching the competition from three to four days in order to accommodate these great athletes."

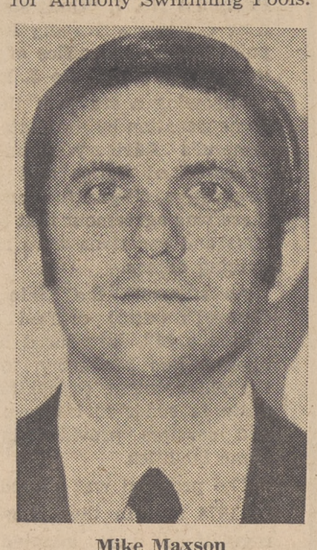
2 Here on U.S. 'Outstanding' List

Two Lemon Grove men have been selected for inclusion in the 1976 edition of "Outstanding Young Men of America."

The two are the Rev. Michael Dennis Maxson, pastor of the Lemon Grove Christian church at 6970 San Miguel st. and Gary Allen Bostwick, a sales representative for Anthony Swimming Pools.



Mike Maxson

Bostwick, with his wife Kathleen and their daughters Mayhan and Linsey, live at 2485 Arcadia st.

The Outstanding Young Men Program is sponsored by the U. S. Jaycees, together with numerous other men's civic and service organizations throughout the nation.

Selectees are chosen for their contribution toward making their communities a better place to live, and who have distinguished themselves in one or more fields of endeavor.

Criteria for selection includes his voluntary service to community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business advancement, cultural accomplishments and civic and political participation.

The selectees, about 9,000 of them, are listed in the annual OPMofA publication.

Pastor Maxson will soon complete his 4th year at the Christian Church. He has been involved in community matters at all levels.

He is president of the Lemon Grove Kiwanis club and is Kiwanis Division Spiritual Aims chairman and Kiwanis 3-state coordinator of Circle K (college level service organization sponsored by Kiwanis). He is the current Kiwanis 3-state Clergyman of the Year.

Pastor Maxson is president of the board of Tijuana Mission and Refuge Orphanage and vice president of the 6-member Urban Industries Fellowship, a new type of ministry in which inner city churches, about to close, are kept open by the Fellowship paying the salary of a minister to keep it open.

For example, an old church in the Haight-Ashbury area of San Francisco was about to close after its attendance dropped to 20 or less due to ethnic and cultural changes. A new minister, paid by UIF, has already increased attendance to 60-90 at each service. The group pays its own travel expenses and works with the church to help it pay its bills. At Christmas, the church fed 38 families. The group also negotiated 7 churches in the area to get together to form a single summer bible school. "Denominational lines were broken." Perhaps for the first time in that area.

Rev. Maxson also served on the L.G. Incorporation Committee and on the board of the L.G. Chamber of Commerce. He traveled to Sacramento to obtain incorporation documents for the local senior citizens program.

He lends his church facilities to Lemon Grove schools' Side-by-Side program; Girl Scouts, and Soroptimist club meetings.

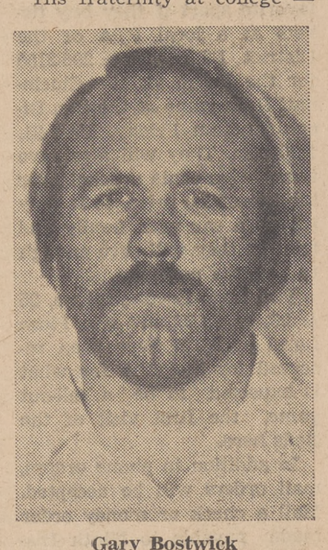
Bostwick was noted for his effort in a fund-raising project for St. John of the Cross church's building fund and for his participation in the L.G. First Baptist church's Young Ambassadors program.

Bostwick was cited for being top in sales in the nation in 1975 for the Anthony Swimming Pool firm. He has been among the top 6 for two years and was top salesman last month.

He is now 31, and was brought to Lemon Grove 30 years ago. He attended grade schools in Lemon Grove; Mt. Miguel High school and Grossmont Community college.

Prior to his present job he was with Foto Mat Corp. for 18 months as a leasing agent. He was in the top 10 (of 200 nationwide) and the firm cited him for producing their "Outstanding Idea of the Year" in which extremely accurate polls could be taken inexpensively on popularity of nationally distributed products.

His fraternity at college —



Gary Bostwick

Phi Sigma — named him "Brother of the Year" for 1967 and 1968 for fund-raising.

He has developed, as a community service, a "Welcome" publication which is distributed to new newcomers to a community service. It lists emergency numbers, parks, schools, medical and other professional names and telephone numbers. He plans one soon for Lemon Grove residents.

Sups Board 'Too Citified' Says Candidate

Cheryl Briggs, candidate for 2nd District Supervisor, claims the County Board of Supervisors is dominated by four city dwellers, three of whom are former city councilmen and one who lives in an exclusive community governed by a covenant. She said this prevents the residents of rural and unincorporated areas of the county from having fair representation on the county board.

Jack Walsh and Jim Bates are former S.D. City councilmen, Dick Brown a former El Cajon City councilman, Lou Conde lives in the city of San Diego. Lee Taylor lives in Rancho Santa Fe, a community formed under a covenant (a highly restrictive type of charter.)

Mrs. Briggs said residents of unincorporated communities such as Bonita, Lemon Grove, Spring Valley, Lakeside, Santee, Alpine, Jamul, and Descanso have no governmental body to turn to with their problems other than the Board of Supervisors. "The present board has no empathy or understanding of the problems of these people, mainly because they live in cities and were schooled in city government," she said.

Padres on Longest Trip; Face Five Strongest Teams

The San Diego Padres will be facing some mighty potent bats in the next few days as they head into the middle portion of the club's longest road trip of the entire 1976 campaign.

The Padres, who are playing 12 games in 15 days in five different cities ranging from coast to coast and into Canada, will finish up their three-game series with the Montreal Expos on Thursday, May 6 and then head into New York for meetings with the Mets May 7-8-9. Following an off day on May 10 the club will head down to Philadelphia to take on the Phillies May 11-12. After another off-date on the 13th, San Diego will conclude the swing in Chicago May 14-15-16 and lastly at San Francisco May 17-18.

San Diego will be going up against a couple of clubs in New Pork and Philadelphia which feature the current top sluggers in the National League.

Schmidt Ties Record

Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt is off to a rocket start in home runs with a major league record-tying performance of 11 home runs in the first month of the season. Schmidt had a field day in Chicago in mid-month when he clubbed four consecutive home runs in a wild 18-16 win over the Cubs. It, of course, goes without saying that he's tops in the league in runs batted in as well. The Phillies were rained out on April 30 but Schmidt hit his twelfth the next day.

Kingman, Too

But first, the Padres have to get past the Mets Dave Kingman who is giving Schmidt a good race in homers with nine heading into the end of the month.

"It doesn't take a genius to figure out that we'll have to pitch these guys very closely," chuckled Padres third-year manager John McNamara. "It's the old story that either one of those two guys could stop you cold with just one swing of the bat. Granted there was a pretty good wind blowing out in Chicago that day (an estimated 25 mph), but it still takes a lot of ability to pop four in a row.

"Both New York and Philadelphia are off to good starts so it appears we'll have ourselves five pretty good games with the two clubs," continued McNamara. "We will be facing a couple of contrasting type clubs, though, as the Mets have one of the top three pitching staffs at the moment in the league while the Phillies have one of the top hitting clubs.

"It's an interesting matchup to compare the two clubs as most 'experts' say the Mets must come up with the hitting to win the Eastern Division while the Phillies have to improve on their pitching."

Riverside 400 Popular With Leading Racers

RIVERSIDE — "It's the greatest thing since axle grease," said Cale Yarborough, who summed up the overwhelmingly favorable reaction of race drivers over shortening the Riverside 400 scheduled for June 13 at Riverside International Raceway.

Even Raceway president Les Richter, accustomed to dealing with as many opinions as there are drivers on the NASCAR Winston Cup Grand National circuit, was a bit staggered to learn that apparently all the racers like the new 400 kilometer (248.9-mile) distance for the race.

One important reason, according to Bobby Allison, a two-time winner at the 400-mile distance, is that the Riverside 400 will be the first race of any kind on the 2.62-mile road course ever to pay more than $500 a racing mile.

The record $124,925 purse works out to $501.91 per mile, which compares quite favorably with every other race on the circuit so far this year except for the Daytona 500 ($686.60 per mile).

"I think it's a super idea," Allison said. "The fans will get a better show. There's no way anybody will get bored in the middle of the race, simply because there won't be any middle — it'll be all race."

Wall Crash Cuts McIntyre's Lead

Pat McIntyre of Lemon Grove who smashed into a cement wall with his Camaro convertible last week, will be on the "comeback" trail Saturday night when Cajon Speedway celebrates its 600th racing program.

McIntyre still leads the El Cajon Stock Car Racing Assn. points race but El Cajon veteran John Dineen, who won last week's feature before a season-high crowd of 4,831 fans, is closing the gap.

Time trials begin at 6:30 for some 60 cars and the trophy dash will begin at 8. Added to the program will be the season's second Powder Puff Derby.

McIntyre, who has accumulated 570 points, leads Dineen by 75 and Ron Esau by 80. Esau, like McIntyre, was involved in an accident a week ago.

Barbara Baxter of El Cajon will lead the Powder Puff gals. She is the current standings leader with 240, followed by Holly Stahl of Chula Vista, Mac Hungtington of Santee and Martha Starr of Alpine.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

Every writer worth his beer and skittles gets "mid-nighted" every once in a while. His copy is blue-penciled out of existence. His best effort of the day is circular filed. His prose is broken. His words are blotted to nothingness. He beautiful measure is judged by some inept editor never to see the light of day. He's mid-nighted out of sight.

Now, one should never pay too much attention to children, women or editors. And because their views often interfere with good judgment, one must never take to heart children's tantrums, women's tears or an editor's appraisement of one's ability, astuteness, taste, ancestry or adjudication.

This being a basic fact of life, most, if not all, mid-nighted stories are retrieved from the circular file and placed in a private folder marked "Save for the Golden Jock Awards."

Thus great poetry of plots and politics, prodigious prose of professional procrastinationing and primitive pretentions are saved for all and sundry who really would like to know who did what to whom and how the awful deed was done.

Give heart, folks. Let the light of truth shine on your humor bone. Prepare for great mirth and merryment. Listen up to tales of evil doing, short cutting, big mouthing, horn swoggling, brazen bamboozling and other charming tricks of San Diego's major sports figures.

It's that time again. The Great Golden Jock Awards dinner and Backside Burning Bash is laid on for a week from Monday Night, (that's May 17th) in the California Room at Town and Country's famous Hotel Circle Convention Center.

And harken to this, old friend. It's no longer stag. For six years we had struggled along in a male only gathering, but with distaffers pushing and shoving for male type sports writing employment, we just had to take in the "MEN ONLY" sign and allow the ladies to join us.

Besides, they know all the words we know and a couple we ain't thought of yet.

And what a field from which to draw potential awardees this year. It's overflowing. It's vast. It's bigger'n Texas.

Why there are so many contenders crowding the arena this time out that even the super cool San Diego Sports Scribes will have a tough time in sober judgment.

But that task is done with sweet pure pleasure. All of us sports colleaguers are committed to clearing the way for the biggest Jock of the year. And our talent is almost unlimited.

And we are taking the measure of Women's Football, Ray Kroc, that continuing candidate Peter Graham, the Padre pair of Peter and Buzzie Bavasi, the strange case of the Mariners ownership, Women's Lib in sports, Charger own Gene Klein, the All American Loser Bruce "The Fierce" Binkowski, and of course, Beautiful Bud Fisher and Friendly Frank Goldberg of the sunk Sails and Dr. Arnold Mandell.

It's all in fun and of good intentions, but some of the hot heads "honored" from time to time get steamed up a little bit and blow a fuse while the rest of us are popping corks.

Liquid refreshment is provided at an open bar, dinners are always excellent and the entertainment is well written (we use the best writers in San Diego), staged with a flair and performed with gusto.

Hosted cocktails open the shindig at 6:30, dinner comes an hour later and the program stumbles into being somewhere around 8:30. Dress is informal, but if you wear a black tie, you must also wear a shirt.

The tab is $25 per person, and it's deductible. All monies over and above the cost of chow and booze goes to the Sportswriters/Sportscasters Association Sports Journalism Scholarship.

Tickets are available from any sports writer in town. Just call this paper, or any other, or your favorite radio or TV station and ask for sports. They'll be glad to take your order. And when was the last time you could tell us what you wanted?

It sounds so good, I think I'll go myself.

Hot Rod Series Returns to OCIR

The National Hot Rod Assn.'s Winston World Championship Series of Drag Racing will return to Orange County International Raceway in E. Irvine on Friday and Saturday.

The spectacular World Championship Series, absent from OCIR since September 15, 1973, will showcase all 8 N.H.R.A. categories, including AA/Funny Car, Top Fuel Dragster, Pro Stock, Pro Comp and Super Stock, and will feature a $22,900 cash purse supplemented by $18,500 in manufacturer contingency awards.

The combined posted purse of more than $41,000 is the key factor that finds pre-entries already exceeding 350 race cars, including more than 30 Top Fuel Dragster, over 35 Pro Stocks and 50 Pro Comp cars.

On Friday gates open at 1 p.m. for tech, qualifying for all 8 categories begins at 3 p.m., qualifying ends at 11 p.m.

Technical inspection is Saturday 10 a.m.-1 p.m. qualifying for sportsmen categories (competition, modified, super stock and stock) from 11 a.m.-2 p.m., qualifying for professional categories (top fuel, AA/funny car, pro stock and pro comp) 2-5 p.m. and eliminations beginning at 6 p.m.

Laver, Nastase Battle In Friars Net Play Fri.

When they last met, there was a little war.

When Rod Laver and Ilie Nastase face each other Friday, things may not be as calm.

It's Nastase's debut in World Tennis and the only thing you can predict is that the unpredictable will happen.

The Friars face Hawaii at the Sports Arena at 7:30 p.m. but the migrations of Nastase —on the court and in the stands — are awaited with equal interest.

"If he goes into the stands, I'm going to keep serving," says Laver. "All I'm interested in is continuous play."

Thirty Seconds

The WTT allows 30-second intervals between points and it is expected that the clock will be running. For violations of the 30-second rule, players can be warned, penalized and disqualified.

Although the Friars will have one WTT match completed, Hawaii will be playing for the first time. Consequently, there is no way to anticipate Nastase's behavior in the league.

"I'd be surprised if it's any different than what it has been," said a Friar player.

T Shirts and Orchids

But back to the match.

It's also Jack-in-the-Box T-shirt night with the first 2,000 persons entering the Sports Arena receiving a regular Friars T-Shirt.

And the soft-sweet fragrance of the Islands will be available for all women attending the match. Each will be given an orchid shipped from Hawaii for the occasion.

So with Laver, Nastase, T-Shirts and orchids for the ladies, the Friars are looking for a large turnout.

Terry Holladay

Player-coach Cliff Drysdale will probably send La Jolla's Terry Holladay against Hawaii's Helen Gourley, a Wimbledon doubles finalist in 1974, in women's singles. Holladay and Bettyman Stuart give the Friars an edge in women's doubles.

Tickets are $6.50, $5 and $2.50 and may be purchased at the Sports Arena, Bill Gamble's stores and Montgomery Ward.

Parking is free at the Sports Arena.

OBSTACLE COURSE — Four year old Zak White (front) and his brother Clay (right) are assisted by Kathy Franer (left) as they plan their way through an obstacle course on their scooter boards in the preschool speech and language program in the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District.

Speech, Language Therapy Free to SV Preschoolers

Free speech and language screening tests are now being given at the former La Mesa Elementary School at 8100 Orange ave., in La Mesa, to preschool children in the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District who have speech and language problems.

Speech and language help will be given to preschool children ages three to five who qualify for a federally-funded speech and language program in the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District and who live in the attendance area.

To qualify for the program a child must have a speech or language handicap. This will be determined by the Speech and Language Specialist when the child comes in for the screening appointment.

The class enrollment of 30 children will receive one hour of speech, language and motor therapy three times a week.

The program provides a unique combination of speech, language and motor therapy. Hearing, vision and other tests will be given to those children who are enrolled.

Parents attend meetings and receive training to help their child.

If a child is not talking, is slow in developing speech, or cannot be understood, he may have a serious speech or language problem.

Other signs include trouble understanding speech and not following directions, no interest in stories, records or television, pointing and using gestures instead of talking and little or no use of sentences, said Mrs. Marilyn Dukas of the District's public services office. A potential problem child's speech is disconnected and he might leave out, add or repeat words and phrases, she said. Sometimes the child is easily frustrated, has a short attention span or appears overactive or easily distracted. Balance and coordination problems may also be observed.

Parents interested should contact Mrs. Dukas, project manager, at 469-6171 for an appointment. The deadline for assigning children to the program is May 14.

Signs Mark Wrong Way

The California Department of Transportation has called for bids on a project affecting the major highways in San Diego. The Department has $44,000 allocated for installation of wrong way warning signs at various locations.

Van Stars on TV Again As Communication's Chief

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Chula Vista, has been elected to head the House Communications Subcommittee, a panel that has taken a major role in the development of radio and television in this country.

Himself a former broadcaster, Van Deerlin gives up the chairmanship of another subcommittee, on Consumer Protection and Finance, to take the new assignment.

Fellow Democratic members of the parent House Commerce Committee elected him to chair the Communications Subcommittee on a 21 to 0 vote at a special caucus April 20 in Washington. Van Deerlin succeeds Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., who resigned the post April 19 because of ill health.

The San Diego congressman served 10 years on the Communications Subcommittee before elevated last year to the chairmanship of the Consumer Protection unit. He thus became the first legislator from the San Diego area to head a House committee or subcommittee in nearly 50 years.

Besides overseeing commercial broadcasting, the Communications Subcommittee has legislative jurisdiction over public broadcasting, cable television, communications satellites, interstate telephone and telegraph services, other common carriers and radio frequency allocations including citizens band.

Van Deerlin said a first order of business for the subcommittee will be to review federal regulation of cable television. "Too often these rules have a crazy-quilt pattern that drastically affects the level of service provided by CATV," he said.

The hearings will be the most searching look at cable television by any congressional committee in 15 years, Van Deerlin said. His own district is served by the nation's largest CATV system, Mission Cable, which has more than 100,000 subscribers.

Before his first election to Congress in 1962, Van Deerlin was a newsman for 20 years, the last eight of them spent as a reporter and commentator for Channels 6 and 10.

The San Diego Board of Realtors May monthly meeting and luncheon featured speakers will be Warren Lasko, director of the Housing and Urban Development San Diego Insuring Office, and J. A. Rich, district manager of the California Department of Veterans Affairs who will speak on "The FHA or Cal-Vet Way."

The meeting, which is open to the public, will be held Wednesday, May 12, 11:45 a.m. to 2 p.m., at the Scottish Rite Center in Mission Valley.

Tickets will be sold at the door or can be purchased in advance at the Board of Realtors, 2231 Camino del Rio S. in Mission Valley. Ticket price is $3.50.

Cuthbert Aids Cancer

Peter Cuthbert, candidate for the Board of Supervisors, District 2, took three days off from his campaign schedule to work on the Cancer Crusade last week. It was his 20th year on the Crusade.

Cuthbert noted that the American Cancer Society has over the years removed the "untouchable" stigma of cancer. "In 1957," he said "many people were fearful of cancer and were afraid to discuss the disease. In those days, people would shut the door on me apparently fearing that I had cancer." Today, that fear has been dissipated, he added.

Abraham Lincoln Hart at 100 Stays Active in SV Rest Home

By John Kowalczyk

There's a man living in Spring Valley who bears the rare distinction of being more than half as old as the United States of America. Abraham Lincoln Hart spent a century adding on the years which finally bore him that honor Saturday when he celebrated his 100th birthday.

Hart was named after President Lincoln, a close friend of the family back when the country was celebrating its centennial. His father had been on the staff of Civil War General Sherman, who, he still recalls, once held him on his knee.

His grandfather, George Hart, was a well to do Englander who came to America and bought up land in the Catskills "when it was cheap." Lincoln appointed George Hart Foreign Minister to Australia and later China when grandson Abe was declared one of the "Sons of the Ming Dynasty."

A native of New York City, Abe Lincoln Hart's first job was as a cub reporter for the NEW YORK SUN. Newspaper work took him to Oregon, where he lists himself as the idea man behind Portland's annual rose festival, and California, where he maintained a column called "Beefs, Moans and Groans" for the LA TIMES.

Spanish American War

At the turn of the century Hart served an eight-year hitch in the navy reserves, highlighted by action in the Spanish American War. He remembers well the Battle of San Diego where he saw the Spanish Fleet sink in San Diego Bay.

"They were fine ships," he says, "As good as ours. But they didn't have the American sailor." He retired from service a commissioned ensign.

In 1920 Hart, in his 40s and recently retired from the newspaper business, was playing golf on a Culver City course when he met a "nice looking gentleman of about 50." The man turned out to be movie studio owner Thomas Ince who by the final putt was convinced that Hart was a man for his business. Hart accepted an offer to work on his publicity staff and before long became Ince Studio's general manager.

His last big job was as the public relations director for the sale of war bonds during World War II.

PR Man

Public relations was Hart's forte.

His press relations and professional credentials made him well known to several famous people.

He was once asked to escort the King and Queen of Belgium who were visiting the country to thank President Hoover for post World War I restoration aid. "He was kind of quiet and grumpy, but she was quite a talker," Hart assesses the royal duo.

Hart boasts of his good memory which helped him become a successful newspaper man. It doesn't fail him much after a century of wear.

He used to be press agent for vaudeville shows. "I was the fella who used to go to the newspaper and tell them a lot of lies."

He did advance work for Theodore Roosevelt, who, Hart is convinced, "was the greatest president we ever had." He remembers the president swapping stories with the press corps while enjoying his favorite snack, doughnuts and buttermilk.

Other clients include Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus, and America's silent screen sweetheart, Mary Pickford.

He was married to an actress and raised four sons, two of whom, he says, became millionaires.

Hart retired to a downtown San Diego hotel several years ago and moved to Wilson Manor rest home in Spring Valley six years ago, where he met and married his present wife Dorothy, 74. Both are confined to wheelchairs.

Despite failing vision and hearing, Hart is still alert and his voice rings loud and clear. One of the favorite residents at the home, the frisky centenarian lectured to his friends and fellow patients Friday at a birthday party.

"The first 100 years are the hardest," he told his younger listeners, "To stay young, stay active."

His son Louis of San Diego held a second party on a grander scale Saturday in the Starlight Room of the El Cortez Hotel in downtown San Diego.

Clinic Workshop Handles Four Health Problems

The East County Community Clinic in El Cajon kicks off its spring health workshop Friday in the Wickes Furniture Community Room in El Cajon.

Each of four health issues will be discussed by a professional in the field. There is no charge for attending the sessions.

Friday's topic is "Good Nutrition: Should You Buy What They Sell?" led by Linda Doninelli.

Other sessions are "Common Foot Problems — Corns, Bunions, Callouses, Ingrown Toe Nails," May 14, Lee Sperling, D.P.M.; "Problems of the Digestive System," May 21, John Todd, M.D. and "Problems of the Urinary Tract," May 28, Warren Kessler, M.D.

It's a fact. The faster we go in our cars, the faster we take life. It's a horrible waste. Speed drains precious energy resources, too. All in the name of saving time.

The point is this. The 55 mph speed limit offers a chance to stop some of this waste if we want to take it to heart.

9400 fewer people lost their lives on our highways during 1975 than in 1973, when speed limits were above 55.

We are saving some gas, too. But nowhere near the eight and a half million gallons a day we could save if everybody slowed down.

Too many people are still taking the 55 mph speed limit too lightly. And overlooking one other fact. Besides saving lives and gas, it's the law, too.

55 MPH. IT'S NOT JUST A GOOD IDEA. IT'S THE LAW.

DMV Warns of 'High-Pressure' Salesmen

The Department of Motor Vehicles Director Herman Sillas is alerting consumers to the pitfalls of high-pressure car sales teams now at work throughout the state.

According to Sillas, turnover systems, sometimes called T. O. systems — in which customers face teams of two to four salesmen — are sometimes found at new-car dealerships which rely on heavy advertising and volume sales.

"These dealers advertise huge savings, sometimes to the point of something for nothing, but employ high-pressure sales tactics and financial razzle-dazzle that can lead customers to make expensive purchases they ordinarily wouldn't," said DMV Compliance Chief John Holmes.

Consumer Awareness

Consumers should be aware of the sales tactics which characterize turn-over systems, Osburn said: "Customers are met by a 'greeter'— often an experienced salesman claiming to be new and without authority to make sales agreements. This first team member often agrees to all customer requests, including unrealistically high trade-in values and very low new-car prices.

"Customers are then 'turned over' to a series of high-pressure salesmen — often introduced as managers or vice-presidents — who, during lengthy negotiations, raise the purchase price and obtain a signed sales contract," he said.

Car keys given up for a dealer's appraisal are often difficult to get back when a customer changes his mind. Salesmen may also refuse to return a "good faith" deposit, leading individuals to purchase a $4,000 automobile for fear of losing $100, according to Bob Edmonson, DMV supervising investigator.

Wearing Buyer Down

"Success in a turn-over system depends on wearing the buyer down emotionally and physically," Holmes said. "Some people — especially older customers — have reported signing a purchase agreement just to end a three or four hour ordeal."

Holmes cited an example of a retired man who drove over 100 miles from his rural home to do business with a large city auto dealer. A greeter met the man and turned him over to another salesman.

The customer's car keys were obtained for an appraisal of his car and the second salesman was joined by a third. Both salesmen evaded questions about the new car's full price, insisted that financing could only be obtained through the dealer's bank, and refused to return the man's keys when he asked to leave.

After three hours, the man signed a sales contract and gave the dealer a down payment check.

Unethical Tactics

"Turn-over systems are not illegal per se," said Holmes. "It's the unethical and sharp sales tactics often used in them that concerns DMV." He said, "Most dealers do not use these high pressure tactics, but the public should be made aware of them."

Holmes advises consumers to think your purchase over for 24 hours, especially when buying a car you really didn't come in for; get copies of all documents you sign. If you have not taken delivery and the car is not a special order, Holmes says, you can expect your down payment to be fully refunded if you change your mind.

Refer any questions about a dealer's or salesman's misconduct to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Tips for Lawn Mowers

Mowing a lawn is important to its healthy thick green look, reminds the California Assn. of Nurserymen. Following are some pointers to proper cutting:

Be sure mower blades are sharp to avoid browning the tips of the grass. Mow weekly during the growing season. Catch or sweep up clippings each time you mow. Dead clippings build up thatch that encourages disease and insect infestation.

If you lowered your mower to cut at one inch during winter, make sure it is one and a half to two inches as weather warms up and at least two inches in hot climates. Cutting a lawn too short in hot weather exposes the crowns of the individual grass plants. This ruins its appearance and the general vigor of the lawn.

Deep, infrequent watering encourages good, deep root growth. Though it will vary by area and soil type, a good rule of thumb is to water deeply once a week in cool dry weather and twice a week during warm dry weather. The watering time will depend on the soil condition, but try to achieve actual water penetration of six-to-eight inches. Water in the morning, preferably between 6 a.m. and 10 a.m. Late afternoon or evening watering encourages fungus diseases.

...and the Kitchen Sink

Charles L. Tolbert reported on April 19 that an apartment complex being constructed for him at 8914 St. George st., Spring Valley, was burglarized of items valued at $850.

Missing were four room-heaters, kitchen sink, bathroom sink, 12 cabinet drawers and a garbage disposer.

Additional loss was suffered because 24 windows were broken by rock-throwing miscreants.

OUTSTANDING — Sheriff's Lieutenant (ret.) William Clements (left) receives Legislative Citation from Assemblyman Wadie Deddeh. Clements spent 24 years in the Sheriff's Department and 5 years in the Deputy Sheriff's Association.

Legislature Cites Deputy For Service With Sheriff

A Lemon Grove man has been cited by the California Legislature.

William "Bill" Clements, a retired sheriff's lieutenant, was presented with the citation last week by Assemblyman Wadie Deddeh in San Diego.

Clements lives at 3065 Corona st. during the winter. In summer he lives in McCall, Idaho where he and his family own and operate a summer camp.

The commendation was in the form of a large plaque describing his 24 years of "faithful service" to the San Diego County Sheriff's Department. He retired from service after a service connected disability.

He also served as a director of the State's Peace Officers Research Association (PORAC) representing San Diego and Imperial counties. He served on PORAC's welfare, pension and training committees.

In 1960 he was named Police Officer of the Year.

Following retirement he served as general manager of the S.D. County Deputy Sheriff's Assn. where his outstanding effort was noted in matter pertaining to the board of supervisors; civil service, and with legislation in behalf of men and women of the sheriff's service. He also served on various legislative committees during that period.

A few days after receiving the citation, he and his family headed for Idaho for his "summer job."

A look at the pages of this newspaper twenty years ago reveals some of the interesting contrasts between then and now. This column highlights some of the items that appeared in this newspaper at this time two decades ago.

Constance Krantz, 17, was named to represent the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley area in the 1956 Fairest of the Fair contest. Miss Krantz competed with five other girls in the event. The winner of the Fairest of the Fair contest was to reign over the Southern California Exposition and County Fair at Del Mar and also would be the official hostess of the Convention and Tourists Bureau for one year. The Lemon Grove-Spring Valley Lions Club sponsored the contest.

Twenty years ago this week the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce voted 6 to 2 to investigate the feasibility of incorporating Lemon Grove into a sixth class city with the study being conducted by the chamber.

Former Congressman Sam Yorty was in Lemon Grove to speak with Democratic supporters at the Golden Avenue school. He was in the area to promote his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to the United States Senate.

The Lemon Grove Marbles Championship of 1956 was held at the Golden Avenue School. The fourth grade winner was Victor Jacobson and Michael Stegal was the top man of the fifth grade competition. The winners were tied right up to the last shot and officials had difficulty keeping the enthusiastic crowd of schoolmates back far enough from the ring to allow the contestants to shoot comfortably. The contest was sponsored by the Lemon Grove Review/Spring Valley Bulletin.

The first of the four section Lemon Grove Freeway was officially opened twenty years ago on the freeway at College avenue. A ribbon was cut as the official act which gave the freeway to the people. About 75 local people took part in the ceremony and Bruce Harms, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, accepted for the community.

Remember the spelling contests from your junior high school days? Lemon Grove Junior High held their annual spelling bee in the second week of May, 1956 and Caroline Wardell won the eighth grade championship. The seventh grade winner was Molly Danielson.

A carnival was held at the St. John of the Cross Church Rodeo Grounds in an effort to raise money for the Lemon Grove Swimming Pool. Hundreds of service club people and other residents of high civic interest spent thousands of hours putting the event together to attract enough funds for an early date to begin the building of the pool.

An old fashioned tent revival was held in Casa de Oro. The Barker Evangelistic party of Coty, Texas hosted the event.

The San Diego County Department of Public Health warned local residents with a story in the Review/Bulletin not to eat mussels. The mussels could not be eaten from May until October, 1956. Mussels become poisonous when they feed upon a minute organism, the gonyaulas. The poison is one of the strongest known to man. The quarantine prohibited the sale of mussels except for fish bait.

The May 10, 1956 issue of the Review/Bulletin had this quote from the late comedian Jack Benny. "I don't try to be sensational. I just try to keep from being lousy."

Cleveland Forest Open May 1 to Campers

Camping is now allowed by permit in designated undeveloped areas with the Cleveland National Forest. The change took effect May 1.

In the past, overnight camping has been limited to developed campgrounds, posted areas and other sites authorized by the district rangers.

The new policy was made to help the increased demands for recreation in the county.

If You Believe You've Been Cheated

This column features a series of consumer protection advisories prepared as a public service by the California Trial Lawyers Association to warn consumers of some of the hazards of business dealings.

Consumers are urged to write CTLA for their Consumer Protection Pamphlet which tells "How Not to Be Cheated and Who to Contact If You Are."

The address is at the end of this column.

What Do You Get When You Buy Insurance?

When the consumer pays his premiums to an insurance company for protection, the ultimate measure of the value of his purchase is how much of his dollar comes back to him as a member of the consumer class which paid the premium.

The best insurance bargain for the individual is, of course, that he never has to collect anything on his policy. No one wants to collect by getting sick, dying or becoming disabled. Yet, for the entire class of policyholders, the percentage of benefit return is the ultimate test.

There are some group insurors which return as much as .90 cents of every premium dollar collected, which looks like a very good bargain. Unfortunately, most insurance systems are not that efficient.

Granted, there is some need for sales commissions, administration costs, legal expense and profit, but according to a publication which publishes insurance statistics, all systems of insurance pay back on the average less than 60 cents on the premium dollar, whether it be for fire, life, auto, disability or other.

While it may be to the insurance company's benefit to collect $100 and pay out no more than $40, such protection purchased by the consumer adds up to a largely illusory benefit. In many cases, the consumer may actually end up getting nothing when he buys an insurance policy.

The Insurance Commissioner of Pennsylvania has published a guide to the most efficient insurance systems. Consumer Reports also has published guides to some of the most efficient insurance companies.

Before buying insurance, you might want to check those guides. You should also ask for pay-out data on any policy you wish to purchase. The insurance companies prepare financial returns which they file with the California Insurance Commissioner, and they can show you how much they pay back out of each dollar collected.

Before you commit yourself to an investment in protection, why not investigate and find out where the best bargain lies? It makes sense to buy protection from a company that pays back most of what it collects to the consumer, rather than to its salesmen and officers.

(To obtain a copy of the CTLA Consumer Protection pamphlet, designed to acquaint you with your rights in the law, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to CTLA, 1020 12th St., Sacramento, CA 95814. Please specify if you want it in English or Spanish).

Bell Wins Beach Battle; Opens Hq.

A one-mile stretch of the finest beach in California will be opened to the public soon, reports Rep. Alphonzo Bell (R).

The famed Trestles surfing beach, just south of San Clemente on Camp Pendleton, will be transferred from the U. S. Marine Corps to the California Dept. of Parks and Recreation. It will become part of the five-year-old San Onofre State Park.

The Navy, which has jurisdiction over Camp Pendleton, has sent to Sacramento a proposed lease. "If Gov. Brown and the State Parks Dept., expedite the matter, the new beach should be open by summer," said Rep. Bell, who battled the Marine Corps to pry loose the present 4.5 miles of beach in San Onofre State Park.

"This wide, virgin beach already has the largest campground in California. More than 150,000 campers are expected to stay at the 370 primitive campsites this year. Nealy 800 more campsites will be added over the next few years. These will be fully equipped with water, tables and showers," said Bell.

Defense for Schrade

Dear Editor:

Assemblyman Bob Wilson continues his mudslinging attack on Senator Jack Schrade with expressions of verbal garbage such as alluding to what he calls "the senators poor public image." Hogwash!

Mr. Wilson insults all senior citizens by indicting the venerable senator because of his age and derides his years of dedicated leadership in public service.

He publicly criticizes the quality of the senator's voice, and speech delivery, and holds his "old school politics" up to ridicule.

Well — "actions speak louder than words" and "old time politics which made this country the greatest, are good enough for me."

Assemblyman Wilson says, "I can lose this election if I can't raise the money." If the commodity needed was hot air instead of cash, his election would be in the bag.
